Sharing Stories, Resources and Ministry Ideas

The Upper Susquehanna Synod continues to find ways to embody what it truly is: the people of God working together to further the mission of our Lord Jesus Christ. To that end, we have launched a new website designed specifically to allow us to share the many stories, ideas, and resources that others may find useful in their respective mission settings.

Check out the new website at <http://uss-elca.ning.com/>. The site will ask you to become a member. Then you will be able to participate in groups, forums and blogs.

Currently four groups have been created:

- Resources to Share – a place for those who have resources they can share or are in need of resources.

Bishop Driesen has posted 2 books he is willing to give to anyone who would like them. Just reply to his posting and the book is yours. Add any resources you can share, or indicate a need that another might be able to meet.

- Ministry Ideas-- intended for ideas, best practices, and other ministry suggestions. Add, for example, the ministries you are excited about in your congregation ,
- Spiritual Self-Care--a place to share and discover resources for spiritual self-care, such as retreat centers, books, spiritual directors, and practices you are willing to share with others.

Eric Deibler has added some information about retreat centers. Feel free to add others.

- Ask the Bishop—intended for those who would like to ask a question they believe would be helpful to others as well.

You can create other groups, but they will go online only after they are approved by the site administrator.

A new website has been launched for the purpose of sharing stories, resources and ministry ideas.

- Join the forum about pandemic flu and its implications for the church.

Become a member of the Upper Susquehanna Synod's "ning" site today and share with other members your available resources and ideas.
