

Report of the Bishop

January 31, 2026

As I begin this report, I offer gratitude to God for the many leaders who make it possible for our synod to carry out its mission. Beginning with the staff of the bishop's office—Assistant for Administration Brenda Krouse, Assistant for Leadership and Formation Rev. Karla Leiby, Director of Communications Chad Hershberger, Bookkeeper Linda Aurand, and Director for Evangelical Mission Deacon Sue Ellen Spotts—and extending to our officers, synod council members, and those who serve on committees, teams, and boards, God has provided this synod with faithful, dedicated individuals who give their best to this ministry we share. I am grateful for the time Pastor Stina Schaeffer shared with us as Assistant for Mobility and Transitions. Pastor Schaeffer left our team in December to become the Chaplain at Susquehanna University, and we wish her God's blessing in this new endeavor.

Following below in this report, you will see a report on the "State of the Synod." Included there are statistics about our synod that, taken on their own, present us with almost insurmountable challenges. Yet these statistics do not tell the whole story of our synod and need to be read in the context of the many and various ministries carried out by our congregations.

The Upper Susquehanna Synod, in its 112 worshiping communities, gathers in prayer, praise, and thanksgiving to God on behalf of a world desperately in need of God's love. As we gather, we remind ourselves and others that God has come into the world in Jesus Christ to bring healing and reconciliation between God and creation and among humankind. This Jesus we proclaim bore the weight of our sin on a cross and carried it into the grave so that it can no longer have power over us; and in his resurrection to eternal life, he took away the power of death that would separate us from God.

Sending onto us the Holy Spirit, Jesus now fills us with all knowledge and truth to witness to his love in the world. Equipped by our worship, we "go in peace" into the world, driven by that same Spirit to "serve the Lord." Members of our congregations, having their eyes opened in faith, observe the work of God among our neighbors and, at the urging of the Spirit, engage with others in service to those whom the world would forget or reject.

- Our members feed the hungry— through support from ELCA World Hunger, twenty of our congregations, representing only a fraction of those that assist the hungry, provided food assistance in their communities. The synod World Hunger Team would like to know if your congregation has a feeding ministry and, if so, how many individuals it serves.
- We clothe the naked—several congregations collect clothing to distribute to those who need.
- We house the homeless—members serve on the board, support and volunteer at Haven Ministries and other ministries to unhoused.

- We welcome the stranger—this land-locked synod provides nearly one-third of the Christmas-at-Sea gift bags shared by Seafarers and International House, along with financial support to this vital ministry.

And more: Several members practiced advocacy on behalf of the our communities, especially the hungry, during Lutheran Day at the Capital with Lutheran Advocacy Ministries in Pennsylvania; Groups have provided quilts, health kits, flood clean-up buckets, school kits, backpacks, shoeboxes, and more to aid those in need around the world; with the Susquehanna Interfaith Network for Disaster Response we offer assistance to those affected by natural disasters; not to mention the funds our congregations raise to support aid organizations.

Through partnerships with Camp Mount Luther, Wartburg Seminary, United Lutheran Seminary, and neighboring synods, we have offered opportunities for youth and young adults to practice and grow in faith; we provided training to pastors, deacons, and lay leaders to improve their proclamation of the gospel; we bring ministry into homes and communities. Our synod helped to build a new bathhouse at Camp so that the ministry of that place can continue to thrive. Collectively, our congregations gave over $670,000 in mission support to the synod, 41% of which we share with the churchwide organization.

God continues to work in this synod, even as we face the challenges of a changing church. We recognize this and give thanks for this wonderful gift of grace, but we do not ignore the challenges.

Declining and aging membership, growing expenses, reduced income, these and other realities continue to grow and stress our congregations and synod. All attempts to stop or reverse the trends seem futile, and we may be tempted to give up. But “God did not give us a spirit of cowardice, but rather a spirit of power and of love and of self-discipline.” (2 Timothy 1:7) Our reading of the times might lead us to see dying churches, but we cannot let a fear of loss draw us from the mission to which Christ calls his church.

In this time, we must open ourselves evermore to the power of God’s Spirit that calls life out of death. We may not have all that we want to carry out ministry, but God has given us all that we need. Our ability to continue in mission is limited only by our ability to imagine and envision God at work in the world around us.

State of the Synod

The Upper Susquehanna Synod consists of 111 congregations, and one synod authorized worshiping community, located across ten counties in Central Pennsylvania. This represents a decline of more than 10% in the number of congregations from 2018.

Baptized membership in our congregations between 2017 and 2024 declined 26% from 28,879 to 21,492, similar to the 23% decline of membership in the ELCA over the same period. Worship attendance has declined 37% over eight years, although online attendance, measured since the COVID pandemic, makes up some of that loss. Post-COVID, worship attendance has increased 9%, which falls below the ELCA increase of 30%.

We continue to see a decline in regular giving, 16% between 2017 and 2024 (Inflation over that same period was 28%). Still, members gave over $8.5 million to congregations in 2024. Correspondingly, congregation mission support to the synod decreased 18%.

Fewer than half of the congregations (47) in this synod are served by regularly called pastors, leaving nearly 60% of our congregations in need of leadership for worship, pastoral care, and administrative responsibilities. For many congregations, worship needs have been met to a greater or lesser extent by Synod Authorized Ministers (SAMs), also called Authorized Lay Worship Leaders (ALWL). These trained lay ministers are authorized by the bishop to lead worship and, in certain circumstances, provide other leadership in a congregation. Ten congregations in the synod are served by SAMs who provide, in addition to worship leadership, pastoral care and administrative oversight on behalf of the bishop.

The roster of ordained ministers in the synod includes 87 pastors and 5 deacons. Fifty-three of these ministers (57%) are retired, twenty-one of them having attained eighty years or older. Seventeen pastors still serving congregations as called or interim are over the age of sixty-five.

The congregations of this synod have relied for some time on the leadership of retired pastors, deacons, and ALWL. The median age of 71 for pastors and deacons and 72 for ALWL reflects the aging membership of our congregations, in which we also struggle to identify those who can lead ministry, care for property, and manage the day-to-day affairs of a congregation.

What we are finding is that the ways we have carried out our congregation ministries for the last half century no longer work as well as they once did. Christ has not abandoned his promise to be with us “until the end of the age,” but how we give witness to that presence needs to change. We still have a message to share with each other and the world, a message of the love of God in Christ Jesus who has called us into this ministry and sent us to baptize and teach others.

As we continue our ministry together in this new year, I will work with our leadership and congregations to explore how God continues to call us and the new paths that lie before us.
